♣ Paul Tiernan: the man who in 2008 had a song (How to say goodbye) in Hollywood teen cult movie 'Nick and Norah's Infinite playlist', who once played with the legendary Donovan, who has 7 solo albums released, who has played his trusty mandola with Nick Harper, Boo Hewerdine, Robyn Hitchcock, Mark Geary, Maria Doyle Kennedy, Sinéad Lohan, Katell Keineg and Glen Hansard to name but a few. He also sang and played the same trusty mandola on Morcheeba's album 'Blood like lemonade' (released June 2010). In 2011 'How to say goodbye' was in the English, Australian and Mexican top 30 iTunes singer-songwriter charts.

Before we forget, also a member of cult Irish band 'Interference' who's song of beauty and wonder 'Gold' featured in Oscar winning Irish film 'Once' and is now a huge Broadway hit.

Paul's 7th CD 'The Mystery of others' was released in April 2015 and signals a departure from his previous releases...CD Baby described it as a 'A sensual concoction of musical mysteries, god, blood, love and the pursuit of happiness'. Musician.ie said: 'Great voices singing great songs, the simplicity of this formula delivered so beautifully has resulted in Paul Tiernan creating an album that is truly a gift to anyone who buys it'

Discovered sometime back in the last century by Paul McGuinness, U2s manager and now living in southwest France. Writes bittersweet love songs and is one of the primary players in the 'sad folk' movement. Has produced/engineered and designed the artwork for all 7 solo cds.....a veritable one man band.

Rock 'N Folk (one of France's major music papers) recently said "he is without doubt one of the best European singer/songwriters, a great guitarist as well, equipped with a magic voice, a perfect mixture of silk and grit. The first song, 'Breakfast in bed' is a gem, a dream impregnated with bittersweet nostalgia that never leaves us after hearing it."

CD Baby have hailed Paul as "a true songsmith in the tradition of Leonard Cohen, Nick Drake and Paul Simon" while also intoning of the album "Earthquakes is as fine an album as you'll hear this or any other year".

Here's another quote from CD Baby (the world's biggest online distributor of independent cd's) : 'Belle is, without a doubt, one of the most memorable male folk albums to come through our doors in years.' 🎵
